Veracyte Announces Three Abstracts to Be Presented at SITC 2022 Annual Meeting

- New findings reinforce potential of company's multi-omics capabilities and tools in immuno-oncology to address biopharma partners' unique oncology drug development needs -

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov. 1, 2022-- Veracyte, Inc. (Nasdaq: VCYT) announced today that three abstracts highlighting the company's unique, multi-omics immuno-oncology capabilities and offerings will be presented at the Society for Immunotherapy of Cancer's 37th Annual Meeting & Pre-Conference Programs (SITC 2022), taking place November 8-12, 2022, in Boston.

"Our comprehensive multi-omics expertise and tools have demonstrated potential to address critical questions related to the newest areas of cancer therapy, including which patients are most likely to benefit from immunotherapies," said Corinne Danan, general manager for Veracyte's Biopharma business unit. "The abstracts being presented at SITC 2022 will provide additional insight into how our Veracyte Biopharma Atlas and Brightplex offerings can enhance understanding of the tumor microenvironment to help our biopharma partners confidently advance every step of their oncology drug development programs."

Following are details of the Veracyte abstracts that will be shared during poster sessions at the SITC 2022 Annual Meeting. Poster sessions will be held in the Boston Convention and Exhibition Center, Hall C.
